

Can't find my favorite sports app

We are in discussions with all the most popular sports applications, but we must admit that not all applications have the possibility to connect. The policy and restrictions of these applications do not always allow us to establish connections with them.

We want to emphasize that these limitations are not on our side and we would gladly connect with all sports applications that are available. If the opportunity to integrate arises, we would establish integration immediately.

Examples of applications that currently do not allow integration are Strava, Huawei Health, Samsung Health, Amazfit, Runkeeper, Nike+ Run Club, Coros, among others.

We understand that these limitations can create disappointment, but we recommend that you remember that your data in these services belongs to you. You have the right to request integration and support for your desired apps. Perhaps together we can create integration so you can participate in DistantRace challenges with your favorite app.

We appreciate your input and recommendations. Your feedback helps determine our development priorities, and we are constantly exploring opportunities to improve integration capabilities with popular applications.

Thank you for your understanding and for being an active member of the DistantRace community. Your support allows us to work towards a better and more integrated fitness experience for everyone.
