

Race certificate creation

In the DistantRace platform, it is possible to automatically generate virtual certificates for finishers.

It's quite simple to do. Here is a short instruction:

1. Open the race certificate view

In this view, you will be able to see all distances by blocks and download the PPTX file for the certificate design for each one.

2. Create the certificate design

The certificate design must be created in PPTX format (Microsoft PowerPoint). Specific text fields in the design will be automatically replaced.

Design Samples

Designs can be created in PowerPoint, but you can also use the service canva.com, where many race certificate designs are available: <https://www.canva.com/templates/?query=race-certificate>.

How to use canva.com to create a new design?

1. Choose a design from the available templates:
<https://www.canva.com/templates/?query=race-certificate>
2. Click "Customize this template"

3. Once you have created the desired design and added the "automatic fields", click "Share"
-> "More".

4. In the list, select “Microsoft PowerPoint” and click “Download”

5. This created design can now be added to distantrace.com and the created design sample can be viewed.

Adding Certificates to DistantRace

Deleting Certificates

To delete a certificate, check the “Clear” field and click the “Save” button.

Publishing a Certificate

If “Is Published?” is checked, a certificate will be automatically generated for the participant after results are added.

Adding a New PPTX File

Click the “Browse...” button, select the certificate, and click “Save.” After clicking “Save,” a visual sample is automatically created - this can take up to a minute. If a specific font is used that displays incorrectly, please send the font to support@distantrace.com for it to be added to the system.

Generate Certificates for Participants

If results are already added for participants, you can add a virtual certificate for participants by clicking “Save & Generate.” If the participant already has a certificate, it will be regenerated.
